Hos. John G. Carver made the five points which no one has attempted to refute.

1. There is not a free country in the world today that is not on a silver basis.
2. There is not a gold standard country in the world today that has more than one-third as much money in circulation per capita as the United States has.
3. There is not a silver standard country in the world today where the laborer receives fair pay for his day's work.

Those who are insinuating that Senator Teller is no greater a sinner than Stanley Matthews for bringing up the silver bond payment resolution overlook the important difference in conditions in the two cases. The Matthews resolution was presented just before the passage of the Bland law. The country had practically no silver coins at that time, and gold was beginning to flow in on account of the approaching gold redemption day, which was less than twelve months distant. Neither Bland nor Teller at that time ever had a silver dollar of American make in his hand. The first silver dollars coined under the Bland law were 92c dollars, and many persons supposed they would be 100c dollars inside of a year. The Bland dollar is now a 45c dollar, and everybody, Teller included, supposes it will be a 40c dollar or a 35c dollar before the present year ends. The Matthews mistake was an entirely different kind of a transaction from the Teller folly.

The Democratic papers continue to find fault with the Dingley law on account of the strike among the New England cotton mills. But the fact is, the cotton schedule in the Dingley law is the same as it was under the Wilson law, as far as it affects all common cotton goods. That was arranged to suit the Southern cotton manufacturers, and it has had the effect they intended it should. It has given them the advantage, because of lower wages and longer hours in that region. Mr. Dingley very truly said in a speech in the house not long since:

"A protective tariff cannot reach and equalize competition between different parts of the same country; it does not profess to do it; it simply reaches and equalizes competition from other countries. There is no competition from other countries in the common cotton goods made in this country. The competition which New England and the North meets in such goods comes solely from the South at present." The chairman of the ways and means committee justly said that it becomes those who legislate to allow eleven or twelve hours per day in the mills of the Southern states to improve the conditions in New England, where no factory can run longer than ten hours per day.

Eighteen hundred and ninety-seven has been in the main a year of prosperity. Eighteen hundred and ninety-eight is a year of still greater prosperity. Uncle Sam has good reasons to be proud of himself and to chuckle at his broad domains now filled with busy men and women, factories smoking, furnaces roaring and business booming on all sides. The early part of 1897 felt the quickening throbs of a returning prosperity and increase in business, and when President McKinley was inaugurated in March, the people looked forward with confidence to a gradually improving condition until the country should reach its old time condition of plenty and happiness. The president immediately called a special session of congress for the purpose of enacting a protective tariff which should reopen the factories of the United States. The great work of revising the tariff on a protective basis and striking from the statute books the free trade Wilson law went on rapidly and was promptly signed by the president. Even before this climax and in anticipation of it, business began to take long strides forward. Announcements were made of factories opening all over the land and thousands of workmen were given regular employment who had been working on half time or less, and living from hand to mouth or starving. Business revived steadily, and the people of the country gathered confidence in themselves and in the future. The country has looked to the new tariff law as its assistant in bringing a return to prosperity.

Mr. Noll's Warning.
J. H. Noll, editor of the Drovers' Telegram at Kansas City was one of the speakers at the National Stock Growers convention, which was in session at Denver last week. His subject was "Statistics as to Values of Live Stock and Prospective Conditions." The speaker reviewed the history of the stock growers business of the past fifteen years, showing that the industry, which was on the down grade for a number of years, reached bottom a couple of years ago, and has since been improving. Figures were given to show that prices are now more than 200 per cent above the lowest point of a few years ago. He expressed the fear that stock and feeding cattle are now bringing more money than they will bring in the market when fattened. That is true of cattle, he asserted, is also true of sheep, horses and hogs.

Comparing the stock industry with that of mining, he said that, if the silver men had Teller, Jones and Stewart at Washington, the stock growers had Dingley, Greaser and McKinley. He spoke optimistically upon the probable effect of the Dingley bill, especially on the sheep industry. He said with a prediction of prosperity for the future.

Catarrh, Dyspepsia

Life Was Becoming Burdensome and There Was No Pleasure in Anything—What Hood's Sarsaparilla Did in This Case.

"I have been a sufferer from catarrh, dyspepsia and piles, and life was becoming burdensome. I had a constant tired feeling and felt so bad that there was no pleasure for me in anything. I tried various remedies with no good results. In fact, some of them made me worse and I gave up medicines and thought I would wear the disease out. I found I could not do this and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills. That terrible tired feeling is now gone, the catarrh has disappeared and I am able to go about my work with pleasure. From my experience I can testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, builds up the system and makes a man feel that life is worth living." FRANK W. WILSON, 1515 La Grange Street, Sedalia, Missouri.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the best in fact the only True Blood Purifier. Insist upon Hood's—take no substitute.

Hood's Pills are the favorite cathartic for all ailments.

Missouri's Labor Interests

Labor Commissioner Arthur Rozell's report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics and Inspection is now ready for distribution and is the most elaborate and exhaustive ever issued by the Bureau, containing chapters on a number of interesting subjects not heretofore considered by this department, among which are complete wage tables of all classes of labor; an exhaustive report on the cost of construction and operation of the water works, electric light and gas plants of the state; statistical report of all government lands in the state, with the rules and regulations for entry and purchase; an exposure of the fraudulent employment agencies and an explanation of the operations of the "Free Employment Department" lately established by the Bureau and a complete digest of all the labor laws of the state.

Missouri is preeminently an agricultural state and Commissioner Rozell gives to Agriculture the place of honor in his report, the chapter on "Agricultural and County Statistics" occupying 210 pages. The description of each county, its cities, towns, railroads, manufactures, area and character of tillable lands, crops produced and property assessed, is very complete and reliable, facts rather than theories or opinions, being given.

The report is handsomely illustrated by a large number of full-page half-tone engravings of the leading manufacturing plants of the state.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for full testimonials.

Hatred of the Flag.

When a man stands on American soil to deliver an address on a formal occasion and says, pointing to the flag of the United States, "I hate it," the incident invites some notice. The wild talk of an extract editor who goes for what he can get, but when accepted with approval by an audience is not without significance. A Houston (Tex.) paper of January 20 contains the report of a speech delivered in that city on the preceding night by William Duncanson at a meeting in honor of the birthday of Gen. Lee, under the auspices of Daughters of the Confederacy and Confederate Veterans. The orator was a Confederate soldier who lost an arm in the war, though he does not talk like a man who was ever at the front, nor like the General whose birthday was commemorated. A person who publicly declares common hostility to the flag under which he accepts citizenship is seldom found in any country, and must be classed as either an advocate of secession or an overzealous supporter of the flag killer. "I hate that flag," said Mr. Duncanson. "I hate it, and I live subservient to it, because my honor demands it, my interest demands it." This is a curious mixture of a lack of patriotism, with personal honor and self-interest. The orator openly denounces the flag which, as he says, honor and interest impel him to recognize as a citizen. The position taken is peculiar. It might be supposed that a man whose honor and interest are interchangeable terms, and both of which accept citizenship is seldom found in any country, and must be classed as either an advocate of secession or an overzealous supporter of the flag killer.

When wear begins to exceed repair in your body you are going to fall sick. The signs of a weak body of flesh, pale skin, nervousness, etc. The repair needed is food. You think you eat enough, and yet you feel that you wear out more tissue, energy, nervousness, than your food makes for you. The difficulty is that you do not digest enough. And this is so serious it is worth sitting down seriously to think about. If you can't digest what you eat, take a few doses of Shaker Digestive Cordial. The effect of it will be to increase your flesh and make you feel stronger. You won't fall sick. Proof that it is in control of your repair apparatus. It's easy enough to test this for yourself. Take a few bottles of Shaker Digestive Cordial.

HOG "CHOLERA" CURE.

Iowa's Experiments Very Gratifying To Secretary Wilson.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Nothing that has occurred since he became secretary of agriculture has given Professor Wilson half as much gratification as the results of the experiments that have been going on under his direction in Iowa and Nebraska during the last few months in the treatment of hog "cholera" by inoculation, for he thinks the discoveries that have thus been developed are worth $100,000,000 a year to the people of the United States. He is not quite ready to give out the reports, but they will be arranged for publication in a few days. Until then it is sufficient to say that the experiments have been eminently successful and justify the belief that the disease which has carried off so many swine in the past years and has cost the farmers of the country so many millions of dollars cannot only be cured but prevented at a trifling expenditure of money and labor.

The experiments were undertaken in Page county, Ia., last spring, here several hundred hogs that were afflicted with a disease that has until now been considered fatal, were cured by the use of serum, and several hundred more that were perfectly healthy when protected by the serum were permitted to range freely among those that were diseased without showing any effects from the contagion. Eighty-five per cent of the sick were cured and the healthy protected. Similar experiments have been going on in Nebraska all summer, but the detailed reports have not been received. The serum is obtained in the same manner as the anti-toxin that is used for diphtheria. A horse or a cow is inoculated with the germs of the disease until no effect is apparent. Its veins are then tapped. A few drops of the blood injected under the skin of a healthy hog has the same effect as the preventive of cholera that vaccination has in smallpox. There was scarcely a failure in several hundred cases, although the animals were exposed to the disease in every possible manner. The same treatment was equally successful in curing the disease when taken in the early stages.

Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department, thinks that the average can be increased to 90 per cent next year, because experience will teach knowledge and wisdom. Curiously enough, the cultivation of the serum does not injure the horse or cow, and the animal can be used over and over again every year until it becomes aged, provided it is given plenty of those forms of fodder that supply and strengthen the blood. A single horse or cow will produce 1,000 doses of serum a year, and, if ordinary economy is practiced, this will reduce the cost of treatment to 10 or 15 cents per hog. Hundreds of thousands of hogs throughout the United States that are now killed for their hides may be used to save the hogs, and their value will be increased by the demand thus created for them.

The secretary of agriculture can continue the experiments without further legislation, but to make a practical use of the discovery will require an appropriation of congress, and he will ask for $250,000 for the purpose of obtaining serum and distributing it among the farmers throughout the country. The method of cultivating it can be taught at all the agricultural experiment stations and on the large stock farms, and able to furnish their own supply. The country agricultural societies can take up the matter, and by co-operation their members can reduce the cost and extend the usefulness of the treatment, but in the meantime Secretary Wilson considers it his duty to introduce the remedy and educate farmers and stock growers until they can take care of themselves.

Secretary Wilson estimates the annual loss from hog "cholera" in the United States from $200,000,000 to $100,000,000. In the state of Iowa alone, where statistics of the mortality of the animals afflicted with this disease have been accurately kept, the annual loss is $15,000,000. He believes that nearly all this can be prevented.

In 1892 there were 25,338,919 swine in the United States, valued at $265,125,492. That was high water mark. Since then their number and value have been materially decreased by the cholera, and the figures for 1897 were 19,060,276 swine, valued at $205,272,721. These hogs are worth an average of $2.84 each. Iowa is the largest hog-raising country, the census for 1897 showing 3,737,950 animals, valued at $2,182,491. Missouri comes next, then Texas, Ohio, Illinois, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and other of the Southern states. There was a decrease of 5.7 per cent in the number and 10.9 in the value of hogs in the United States last year.

After years of untold suffering from piles, E. W. Porell of Kittleville, Pa., was cured by using a single box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Skin diseases such as eczema, rash, pimples and obstinate sores are readily cured by this famous remedy. Sold by all druggists.

In the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February Mr. Walter Wellman gives a valuable summary of the achievements thus far made in aerial exploration and of plans now maturing for the immediate future, including Mr. Wellman's own expedition projected for the years 1898-99. This is followed by a collection of opinions on the value of polar discovery from such experts as Dr. Naasen, General Greeley, and Commodore Melville, and from several eminent scientific men.

Mr. Eliza Berry, of this place, says he never had anything do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He was bothered greatly with shooting pains from hip to knee until he used this liniment, which affords prompt relief.—B. F. Baxen, druggist, St. Paul, Ohio. For sale by all druggists.
